"Promise yourself to be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind . . . to make all your friends feel that there is something in them . . . to be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own . . . to forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future . . . PEACE MAKERS

"Mankind must put an end to war, or war will put an end to mankind."
— John F. Kennedy

The hightened tension on earth is increasing at an almost exponential rate. Presently, there are forty armed conflicts existing in and around the world upsetting the delicate balance of life on our planet. In the past few thousand years of human history, mankind has sustained fifteen thousand wars. Political tension is an infectious growth and the human community must be aware of this disease in order to destroy it before it destroys us.

"The United States can overkill every Russian person forty times. The Soviet Union can overkill every American person twenty times. To talk about negotiating from a position of strength from that position is obscene."
— Dr. Helen Caldicott

The atomic strength of the east-west conflict offers no hope for the survival of the living. It only offers a potential for a nuclear holocaust. Tranquillity on earth can not be established by sole supremacy, but it can be maintained by those who advocate peace over war, freedom in the face of oppression, and justice as opposed to disenfranchisement. Peacemakers are a positive check to the renewed cold war. They are determined to promote peace and to stop violence. It is to these individuals that we wish to dedicate the 1984 Merrimackan.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

PEACE MAKERS

"Peace is not the absence of tension, it is the presence of justice"
— Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"Those who make peaceful revolution impossible, will make violent revolution inevitable."
— JFK

Often at times, turbulence erupts between peoples of conflicting interests, especially when international affairs clash. Some examples of this agitation amoung groups are the revolution in Nicaragua, the civil war in El Salvador, the oppression in Poland, the invasion of Afghanistan, the Euromissile crisis, the abuse of civil rights in South Africa, the religious wars in the Middle East, and the violation of human rights in and around the world. Peace activists are dedicated to dismantle the injustices that plague the misfortuned. A peaceful society is a healthy one, and it is one that can be achieved by those individuals who are motivated by the truly human desire to unite people on a global level.

"Our country places special importance on the character of the relations between the two giants: the Soviet Union and the United States. If our two countries united their efforts . . . who could dare and who would be in a position to threaten peace? Nobody. There is no such power in the world."
— Anatoli Gromyko

There is no need for an outpouring of words to explain oneself to a friend. Friends understand each other's thoughts even before they are spoken.

— Susan Polis Shutz

When a person has a real friend, he learns not only to appreciate another human being, but he also learns to understand himself better.

REGISTRATION

A horrible feeling monopolizes your body. Your stomach knots, hands shake, and beads of perspiration form on your forehead. Most will agree that these symptoms are typical results of anticipating REGISTRATION DAY.

You arrive 45 minutes early in order to beat the crowds and get into line. You suddenly become part of a large mass of people, and find yourself standing in a long, long hallway with no end in sight. You fumble nervously with paper, pens, and schedules. You push and shove, having difficulty controlling your physical actions. You burn with rage as people pass you by stating that they are scheduled to register before you — (likely story). Finally, your time is called. You bolt to the desk and grab the registration material. Next, you stagger wildly through the gym. (Professors are stationed at their respective tables marked by signs which distinguish each course area.) At first, you cannot find a single subject that you're looking for. Panic strikes! Students clamour around the tables, announcing combinations of mixed up numbers and letters in quest of a certain course. People beg to be admitted to courses; they plead with the professors. Desperate yelps can be heard throughout the gym like, "I've scheduled 2 courses at 8:00!" Upon looking frantically about, everything appears to be a blur — scurrying bodies, concerned faces, confused expressions. At last it is over. Five yellow cards (hopefully) are held tightly within your grasp. You collapse on a bleacher and proceed to fill out your schedule. You sigh in relief for the courses that you managed to get and moan in disappointment for those you did not. You stumble anxiously towards the check-out table, and then you get stamped — a signal of freedom! You escape from the gym and chatter about your newly acquired courses. It's always a relief when the registration process has ended, even if your schedule isn't as perfect as you had hoped it would be. After all, schedules need not be permanent; there always remains the tempting alternative of waiting in another line on the following day — the delightful and familiar experience of Drop/Add.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION

As the cost of attending Merrimack continues to escalate and the job market becomes more competitive, Cooperative Education is becoming an increasingly attractive program. The Cooperative Education department has seen steady growth since its inception twelve years ago. This past spring 340 students were involved in the five year program offering experience to students majoring in Business Administration, Civil and Electrical Engineering, and Computer Science.

The benefits of the program are two fold. The employer gets to observe a young aspiring professional on a daily basis and for a four month period. During an interview the employer can only guess at the capabilities of the student, but through Co-op the employer can actually test those abilities. In the long run, it is the student who really benefits from Cooperative Education. They can now evaluate career possibilities prior to graduation. Since the program beings before the end of the students sophomore year it can also help them to select a major. Some upperclassman get hired on as full time employees after graduation. While others gain contacts that help them on their job search.

The days when a college education guaranteed employment are over. Jeffery Yanagi, Director of Cooperative Education, states that, "The degree must be supplemented by experience and a firm understanding of career identification is critical. Students should come out of college with a better understanding of why they went to college." Thousands of students have gained from this program that has helped prepare many men and women from Merrimack to enter the 'real world'.

FINALS

Eight traumatic weeks throughout our career at Merrimack — FINALS.
Faculty members call them "a means to test our knowledge" or "an opportunity to display our intelligence".
To most students, they are no more than an emotionally draining experience and a test of one's ability to deal with suffocating levels o pressure.
Individuals radically change their personalities during finals.
Merrimack women, usually avid dieters, can't seem to stop gorging themselves.
No longer do the clothes conscious students appear to have just completed a modeling photo session; they can be seen clad in sweats, hai swept into careless pony tails.
The student whose room is usually indicative of total order — neat and impeccably clean — is suddenly found living chaotically amidst heaps o clothes and disaster.
The usually unselfish student, ceases to be "Mr. Nice Guy"; sharing of notes is not done with thoughtful ease, and there exist no offers fo limitless tutoring.
Students can actually be classified according to their unique study habits during finals.
There is the "scheduler" who devises lenghty and detailed plans of study but rarely adheres to his or her carefully calculated allotments of time
Then there is the "neat nut" who arranges and rearranges his or her desk, believing that complete organization is the key to success.
An opposite case is that of the "messy student" who can only study in clutter and confusion; after all, who has the time to be tidy during exar periods?
We all probably have a touch of the "procrastinator" in us.
We search for and find anything else to do in order to put off the inevitable period of serious studying.
In any case, outrageous amounts of caffeine are consumed on campus, and a good night's sleep is a definite rarity.
Visine and vitamins are familiar commodities, and "I pulled an all nighter" is the phrase of the week.
At last finals are over, and it's time to escape, to go home.
It's a time to cry to our parents about how exhausted we are, how long and hard we studied, and how incredibly difficult our exams were
A miserable and nerve wracking experience? Yes, without a doubt.
Eight weeks of our lives that we'd like to forget but never will? Of course.
An important part of our educational college experience? You bet!

HAPPY NEW/HAPPY OLD

We change the world
And the world changes us,

And in that shift
Of sands and time
We slip and slide
Towards yet another year.

Take time.

Stop here
For just this minute to Recap,
Recast,
Review
The tiny footprints
Of our lives,
And tell me,
Tell me true,
What really matters now to you?

1984 Is Coming
But don't be afraid,

Big Sister Is Watching

T.G.I.F.

We can't keep our eyes off the clock;
we manage to date a new page in our notebooks,
but our only notes are doodles.
We rationalize that at least we attended class in body.
(after all, most students conveniently forget about their afternoon classes on this day).
Finally, the professor lets us go,
and we flee to our cars, our dorms, or our townhouses.
It's the time of the week that we look forward to most;
it's FRIDAY AFTERNOON at Merrimack!
For some, it's a time to play sports in front of the townhouses.
For some, it's a time to crawl beneath the covers and watch soap operas.
For everyone, it's a time to hear the music from conflicting stereos sounding at abnormally high decibles.
It is often the promised time of salvation the gets students through the week.
It's a time when the faculty lounge fills with thirsty students, and the "Holiday Inn", "Diane's", and numerous Boston hot spots become populated with Merrimack seniors.
The place to go depends on the degree of extravagance our budgets allow for the particular week, and which drink specials appeal to us most.
We toast, we laugh, we talk, and we celebrate.
We may visit the faithful "24-hour bank teller", because our weekends monetary allotments were spent in 3 hours.
Then, we return to our respective residences to rest.
Before we know it, it's time to rejuvenate ourselves in preparation for the second best time of the week — FRIDAY NIGHT!

MERRIMACK HONORS YAZ

Adele Keohan singing the national anthem

October first of 1983 marked a memorable day for all of those who admired one of the finest American baseball players of all time. Carl Yastremski was praised on that day by the multitude of sports fans as the great athlete retired from the Boston Red Sox. As part of the honor ceremony at Fenway Park, Rev. John E. Deegan, president of Merrimack College, presented gifts to the famed 'Yaz'.

In appreciation, Yaz provided new hope for the baseball program here at Merrimack as he established the Hedwig Yastremski Baseball Scholarship. The award will be based upon athletic and scholastic ability, and also concentrating on financial need of the student. "I decided to establish a baseball scholarship at Merrimack in gratitude for all the help I received from a lot of people when I was a student at Merrimack," Yaz stated. It is with great honor that the Merrimackan staff dedicates the sports section of this yearbook to Carl Yastremski, a 1966 graduate of our college.
